Transition Expressions

In process writing, transition words and expressions are needed specifically to make the steps in the process clear. These transition expressions help the ideas or steps in the process flow from one to the next so that the reader can follow them logically and easily. Without the appropriate transition expressions, the paragraph is just a list of steps.

Unit 3 Transition Expressions: first, next, then, and finally

First

Function: signals the first step

Use: First is an adverb and is usually followed by a subject and a verb. However, first can also come in the middle or at the end of the sentence. In many cases, the imperative verb form (command form) comes after the word first to give directions.

Example:
First, apply for the job.

Punctuation Note: When first comes at the beginning of a sentence, it is followed by a comma.

Example:
First, Emilio applied for the job.

When first comes in the middle or at the end of a sentence, no comma is necessary.

Examples:
Emilio first applied for the job.
Emilio applied for the job first.

CAREFUL! Firstly, secondly, and thirdly are commonly used in British English but not in Standard American English.

Next

Function: signals the step after the previous step or action
Use: Next is an adverb. It can come at the beginning or at the end of a sentence. Just as you can with first, you can follow next with a subject and a verb or use the imperative form.
Example: Next, schedule an interview.
Punctuation Note: When next comes at the beginning of a sentence, it is followed by a comma.
Example: Next, Emilio scheduled an interview.

When next comes at the end of a sentence, no comma is necessary.
Example: Emilio went for an interview next.

Practice: Find the sentence in Source 1 that contains the word next. Write it here.

Then

Function: signals the step after the previous step or action
Use: Then is an adverb. The most common position for then is at the beginning of a sentence, followed by the subject and verb.
Example: Then Emilio waited for an offer.

A more formal position of then is directly after the subject and before the verb.
Example: Emilio then waited for an offer.
Punctuation Note: No comma is necessary with then.
Practice: Find the sentence in Source 1 that contains the word then. Write it here.

Find the sentence in Source 2 that contains the word then. Write it here.

Finally

Function: signals the last step in the process or action

Use: Finally is an adverb. It is used at the beginning of a sentence to signal the last, or final, step of a process.

Example: Finally, send the company a thank-you note for the interview.

Finally can appear in the middle and at the end of the sentence. In these cases, it means “at last” and does not signal the last step in a process.

Example: Emilio finally made an appointment for an interview.

Punctuation Note: When finally comes at the beginning of a sentence, it is followed by a comma.

Practice: Find the sentence in Source 1 that contains the word finally. Write it here.

WORKING WITH TRANSITION EXPRESSIONS

Read the paragraph. Fill in each blank with first, next, then, or finally. Some transitions may fit into more than one blank. Add correct punctuation where necessary.

It is easy to make a telephone call if you follow these simple directions. To make the call, __________ you must know the telephone number you are dialing. __________ pick up the phone and listen for the dial tone. __________ you can start dialing the telephone number. If the person answers the phone, begin speaking. If an answering machine clicks on, wait for the beep and record your message. __________ hang up the phone when you have finished your call.

CAREFUL! Do not confuse the transition words finally and in conclusion. The adverb finally is not used to signal the end of the paragraph. It is used to signal the final step (reason, example) in a sequence.

Example: First, weigh the patient on the scale. Next, take the patient’s temperature. Then take his or her blood pressure. Finally (NOT in conclusion), tell the patient to wait for the doctor.
