

The secret treasure

In Egypt, in 1995, an American family went to visit the wonderful pyramids of Alexandria. In this family there were: Mr John Stevenson, dad of the family and policeman of the Miami Police; Mrs Felicia Stevenson Logan, the dad's wife and housewife; and finally a daughter called Leah, she was 16 years old; and a son called Duncan, he was 10 years old.

They arrived in Egypt, at Alexandria, in a day of August, and in the afternoon they went to visit a mysterious pyramid in the desert.

This pyramid was dark and terrifying, there was a famous grave of an old pharaoh. Duncan and Leah went away from the parents and they slipped in a terrible room, where there was a passage in the wall. They were curious, they pushed a brick and they went beyond the wall.

They found a grave of another pharaoh, here there was a big treasure.

This was the richest treasure of all time, no one had ever found a treasure so big and important.

This treasure was particularly because there was an important and magic diamond that it contained a terrible curse!

The secret treasure

Today, I'd like to write about a secret treasure that I saw in a dream. I dreamt two people who were in a café and who they were reading a newspaper. On this newspaper there was an article with a photo: a jewel set in a rock! These two men read the article and they decided to leave to find this treasure. They read the article for a lot of times and they understood that the treasure were ^{was} in a little town near Moscow, in Russia. So they took a map, they prepared all things they need ^{ed} for the trip and, pushed by curiosity, they left. They didn't know why they were going there and they didn't know if there was really a treasure but they didn't think about all these things because they WANTED the treasure at all cost. So they arrived there, in Russia, there was snow on the roofs and on the trees, they walked with great difficulty. After two hours they went on a mountain where, ^{with} a lot of difficulty, they found the rock which they saw on the newspaper. They smiled, they screamed and, at once, they wore the gloves and, with a lot of ^{strength} strong, they took away the jewel from the rock and suddenly the rock began ^{to change} yellow like the gold and, afterwards, it broke. Finally the two men had found the treasure that it had a special shine. They sat down when, suddenly, on their gloves, appeared a golden inscription that it said: "Unity is strength"!

The secret treasure

Once upon a time, in a kingdom, there was a very avaricious king. One day he found a map as he was walking in the tower. In that map there ^{were} the clues to find a secret treasure. The inscription was this: "At midnight, under the sky, in the lake there is an eye! Although the water is very cold; there's a treasure more important than the gold". Immediately the king called the subjects to start the treasure hunt. He said: "The man who will find the treasure will receive half of it". Everyone was very excited, but only a mean man understood the inscription. He went to the kingdom's lake and he waited for (the) midnight. ^{Then} (After) he saw the reflex of the moon in the water which looked like a big eye. He plunged into the lake and he saw a wooden box. He picked it up and he gave it to the king. The king was very excited but when he opened the box he saw only a light blue stone. He was very furious. He tried to break the stone to give a half of it to the man but he couldn't. So he gave the unbroken stone to him to keep his word.

The Secret Treasure

In a castle situated near the sea there were two princesses. Since they were born, they were friends. The first princess was Esmeralda, a very beautiful girl. She had long black hair and green eyes.

Instead the second girl was Valentina and she was very ugly.

They were ever together and every Sunday they stayed in a small cave on the beach. One day, while they were together in the cave, Valentina gave to her friend a jewel and she said: "This is the jewel of the friendship. It's a magic jewel because I bought it in a witch's shop. I know we must hide it because if somebody will steal it, we'll hate each other for ever!". Esmeralda was frightened, but she accepted.

The jewel was wonderful! It was blue and it was in the form of a heart.

The princesses decided to hide it in the cave, because it was their secret place. They hid the jewel in a red artificial flower and they covered it with the sands.

Many years passed and Esmeralda and Valentina were still friends. But a terrible day, the sky became black and Valentina's heart and Esmeralda's heart became cold like the ice: somebody stole the jewel! They hated each other and they argued. Their friendship was broken. Every day Valentina cried and Esmeralda was sad. One night there was a party in the castle. The moon was white like the snow and the stars shone in the sky.

When Esmeralda met Valentina their heart started to beat very fast and the blue jewel appeared and was in their hands. Although a girl had stolen the jewel, they found it because their friendship was very strong. The friendship is the ^{best} feeling!
